Our seventh Wellsville Chamber of Commerce Spotlight is on Wellsville Chiropractic (711 Main Street, Wellsville). Growing up in a big city, owner Dr. Nicole Vlcek-Sullivan D.C., wanted to be a part of a close-knit community, and Wellsville was the perfect opportunity. She loves that Wellsville has a family-oriented mentality, with a sense of pride in the community. It is definitely the community that allows her business to thrive through its support of Wellsville Chiropractic and her practice.

Upon receiving her degree, Vlcek-Sullivan opened her clinic in August of 2013. Nicole knew she wanted to help others, while making a difference. She has been continually doing just this by treating each of her patients individually and helping them according to their specific needs. In a typical day she treats anywhere from 40-50 patients, ranging from the ages of 4 days old to 102 years old.

Not only does Vlcek-Sullivan make an impact with her patients, but she also volunteers her services for the USD 289 Wellsville School District. Whether it be providing her services to perform physicals for the middle and high school athletes in the spring or supporting various programs within the schools, Nicole is extremely conscientious about giving back to the students in Wellsville schools.

As can be seen, Nicole prides herself on being active within the community because of the significance it holds for helping others. She also believes it has played an important role in the success of her business. One of her biggest achievements to date has been being selected as the 2020 Wellsville Chamber of Commerce Businessperson of the Year. She is proud of this accomplishment because it not only recognized her involvement within the community, but it also recognized the leadership she has provided for local Wellsville businesses.

As with owning any business, challenges are faced. One of Wellsville Chiropractic's challenges is that some people do not believe they really need to use a chiropractor, or they are too scared to visit one. Although insurance doesn't always cover chiropractic services, the services can make a drastic difference in the well-being of the patient.

With chiropractic services being in demand, Nicole said, "We could always use another set of hands and a larger space to provide services." Nicole hopes to expand and do additional marketing and promotion for acupuncture services as well. Although much of her clientele have been gained by word of mouth, she always appreciates customers telling friends about coming to Wellsville Chiropractic for help. She truly enjoys seeing the satisfaction of new customers.

So, if you are looking for a chiropractor that is skilled and makes a difference in the community, call (785) 883-2234 and visit Nicole Vlcek-Sullivan D.C. at Wellsville Chiropractic.
